A monkey is sitting in a tree smoking a joint when a lizard walks past and looks up and says to the monkey, "Hey! what are you doing?" The monkey says, "smoking a joint, come up and have some." So the lizard climbs up and sits next to the monkey and they have a few tokes together.

After a while the lizard says his mouth is 'dry' and that he's going to get a drink from the river. The lizard climbs down the tree, dittybops on thru the jungle to the river and leans over the river to get his drink. Well, the lizard is so stoned that he leans too far over and falls into the river.

A Crocodile sees this and swims over to the lizard and helps him to the side, then asks the lizard, "What's the matter with you?" The lizard explains to the crocodile that he was sitting in a tree and smoking a joint with the monkey and got too stoned and then fell into the river while taking a drink.

The crocodile says he's gotta check this hippie monkey out and walks off into the jungle where he finds the tree where the monkey is still sitting and toking on the joint. He looks up and says "hey you!"

The Monkey looks down and says, "Duuuuuude.....how much water did you drink!"

October's Harvest Glow

The month of October has a certain glow That seasonally shines from year to year, A time to daydream and reninisce about abundant harvest that we hold most dear! A gathering of children tumbling in bundles of leaves, then later, carving funny faces in a pumpkin or two, when red-cheeked apples are blushing to be cider. Oh, so much fun and frolic and ado! Dry leaves crinkle and shuffle at our feet while strolling amid this kaleidoscope of loveliness, crimson and gold, such tints to behold and treasures to add to the harvest list! An old barn owl hoots a melancholy melody in the cool, rounded moon October nights, while scarecrow stands bravely, making its stand giving crows such fear and fright! In October we cherish a Fall-like mood as we drink in flaming colors on dispay. Wouldn't it be enchanting if artist Autumn lingers painting another orange and red harvest-filled day?
